Passage 1

When Columbus arrived in the Americas in 1492, there were already an estimated thirty to forty million people living in North and South America. It has therefore been quite easy for some to refute the idea that Columbus "discovered" America. How and when these inhabitants came to America has been the source of much scientific research and discussion. Most archeologists agree that the first Americans, the true "discoverers" of America, came from northeastern Asia. There is also a considerable amount of proof that inhabitants have been in the Americas for at least 15,000 years. To get to the Americas, these people had to cross over the 55-mile-wide Bering Strait that separates Asia and North America. According to one theory, these people crossed over during periods when a land bridge existed between the two continents. During Ice Ages, so much of the Earth's water was frozen that the sea levels dropped, and it was possible to walk from Asia to North America.

46. What is the author's main purpose?
A. To explain how to cross the Bering Strait
B. To explain how Columbus discovered America
C. To show how people came to America before Columbus
D. To demonstrate the importance to archeologists of northeastern Asia
47. In 1492, how many people were probably in the Americas?
A. Fewer than thirty million
B. Exactly thirty million
C. Forty million or fewer
D. At least forty million
48. It is implied in the passage that _____.
A. Scientists are sure about America's first inhabitants
B. All is not known about America's first inhabitants
C. Columbus was really the first person in America
D. Columbus arrived at almost the same time as America's first inhabitants
49. There is general agreement that the first people who came to North America came from _____.
A. Africa B. Europe C. South America D. Northeastern Asia
50. Which of the following is NOT stated about the Bering Strait?
A. It is 55 miles wide.
B. It is a land bridge today.
C. It separates North America and Asia.
D. It was probably a land bridge during the Ice Ages.

Passage 2

Well, I'd heard that Faresey boasted an attraction which was popular with children from eight to eighty, so I took my neighbour Tom, who's twelve, and his granddad. Alee who's seventy. And, well, the day was a roaring success. Faresey is the home of a model railway, but what really pulls in the crowds is that you can spend hours going round an entire model village, complete with market, workshops and houses, all based on Faresey in the nineteenth century. I was fascinated by it, and so were my friends. I had been worried that there wouldn't be enough to keep Tom occupied, but the working model machines really hooked him. Faresey itself is a pleasant small town and the model village is something which you can't help being interested by. It's easy to get to if you drive, as it's just ten minutes from the motorway, about forty minutes altogether from here. And it's open all the years round. In fact, I'd recommend it as a good day out during winter rather than summer, as you could still be there and back in daylight and the crowds might be thinner, so you wouldn't have to wait for a clear view of the models. Not that that's a great problem, even in summer, but you do have to be a bit patient at some of the best bits.

51. The speaker has heard that Faresey is an interesting place to _____.
A. elderly people B. middle-aged people C. children D. all of them
52. Children can enjoy the _____.
A. modern railway B. model railway
C. American railway D. old railway
53. The model village contained _____.
A. market, shops and houses B. market, workshops and houses
C. factory, shops and buildings D. cottage, shops and churches

54. Faresey is _____.
A. 10 hours from the motorway B. 10 minutes from the motorway
C. 10 hours from the bus station D. 10 minutes from the railway station
55. It is recommended to go to Faresey in winter because _____.
A. it is less crowded C. it is cheaper
C. there are more things to see D. it is heated

Passage 3

People say that red, yellow, and orange are warm colors, and that blue and green are cool colors. But if you touch a red wool sweater, it doesn't feel warmer than a blue wool sweater. And if you touch a green leaf, it doesn't feel cooler than a yellow leaf. Then why do people call certain colors "cool" and other colors "warm"?

Now let us think of some warm things. Faces turn red when they are warm. The hot sun glows yellow to orange. In warm summer weather, strawberries and tomatoes ripen to red. These may be some of the reasons why we say red, yellow, and orange are warm colors.

But why do we say blue and green are cool colors? Is it because cold seas and oceans are blue and green? Or is it because people cool off in the shade of green trees? Or still, is it because lips turn blue when they are cold? Many cold things seem to be blue and green.

There is another reason why we have cool colors and warm colors. Scientists have measured the temperature of colors with a special instrument called a thermopile and have found that reds, yellows, and oranges are warmer than blues and greens. Although we cannot feel the difference, warm colors really are warmer than cool colors.

56. What would be the best title for the passage?
A. Warm Colors and Cool Colors B. The Temperature of Colors
C. Effects of Colors D. How to Classify Different Colors
57. Which of the following statements can be inferred from the passage?
A. Touch a red sweater and you will feel its warmth.
B. A green leaf is cooler than a yellow one.
C. Scientists can feel the change in temperature of colors.
D. People feel cold in the shade of trees.
58. In line 5, the word they refers to _____.
A. the red color B. faces C. weather D. warm colors
59. According to the last passage, what is the scientists' discovery?
A. Scientists have found that reds, yellows, and oranges are warmer than blues and greens
B. Scientists have invented a special instrument called a thermopile.
C. Scientists suggest that we can actually feel the difference when we touch a red wool sweater and a blue wool sweater.
D. Scientists have found that warm colors really are cooler than cool colors.
60. Which of the following colors are ALL warm colors?
A. Red, yellow, blue B. Red, green, orange
C. Red, yellow, orange D. Red, green, blue
